THE NEW SCHOOL FOR PUBLIC ENGAGEMENT

Articulation Agreement between Kingsborough Community College and The New School for Public Engagement

The New School for Public Engagement's Undergraduate Programs are designed to offer transfer students a broad, ambitious, and stimulating curriculum in the liberal arts. Knowing that transfer students and adults come with rich and diverse backgrounds, as well as their own passions and curiosities, we do not impose a core curriculum. Instead, students work closely with their faculty advisors to develop personalized programs of study. Subject areas include, but certainly are not limited to: filmmaking, food studies, creative writing, environmental studies, psychology, the visual arts, international affairs, urban studies, visual studies, literature, languages, global studies, media studies, philosophy, non-fiction writing, and management.
