Student: Please attach an academic writing sample, preferably related to your field of interest, plus a two-tothree page essay that explains your rationale for pursuing graduate study. The essay should focus on three things:

- 1) Why this area of study makes sense, given your academic /professional interests, preparation, and career plans.
- 2) Why you want to take graduate courses now, rather than waiting until your undergraduate degree is completed.
- 3) How your studies and experience provide the foundation necessary to successfully complete graduate-level work.
- *Applicants to any New School for Social Research graduate program must submit two letters of recommendation.
