Hispanic Studies (minor)

The Hispanic Studies minor can complement any undergraduate major, such as History, Sociology, The Arts, Literary Studies, Food Studies, and Fashion Studies. Hispanic Studies can also be taken as part of a liberal arts or self-designed curriculum.

Hispanic Studies is an interdisciplinary minor that draws on a broad range of courses in language, literature, film, history, and politics. The minor can complement any concentration, deepening students' global competencies, cross-cultural perspectives, and awareness of a range of important cultural and social issues.

The knowledge and skills students acquire through advanced study of a foreign language prepare them for a diverse and increasingly international workplace and for further study in graduate school. Career possibilities include jobs in translation and interpreting, international affairs, nonprofit work, media and journalism, and business.

Hispanic Studies for native speakers of Spanish

Native speakers of Spanish who wish to complete the minor in Hispanic Studies must complete five courses chosen from the list of electives (excluding NSPN 3100, Y tú también). Native speakers are required to meet with the Spanish section coordinator before they register.

Course	Description	Credits
	Four core courses in the study of the language
NSPN 2010	Spanish Intermediate 1	4
NFRN 2102	Spanish Intermediate 2	4
NFRN 3101	Spanish Advanced 1	4
NFRN 3102	Spanish Advanced 2	4
	One elective course, taught in English or Spanish, chosen from
NSPN 3100	Y tú también	3

NSPN 3730	Teatro en español	3
NSPN 3729	Nuestra Lengua y Cultura	3
NSPN 2730	Amores de telenovelas	3
NSPN 3724	Historia y cultura Hispana-Latina	2
LHIS 2811	The Age of Cervantes (taught in English)	3
LHIS 3016	Populism and Democracy in Latin American History (taught in English)
LLIT 1021	Latino and Latina: Space and Identity (taught in English)
LLIT 2010	Spanish American Narrative in the 1960s: The Boom (taught in English)
LLIT 3046	Literature of the Borderlands (taught in English)
LLST 3501	Don Quixote and the Origins of Literary Modernity (taught in English)
LREL 2031	Caribbean Religious Traditions (taught in English)
LTHR 3051	Acting 2: Theater of Latin America
LLSL 2864	Spanish Surrealism (taught in English)
PLAD 2010	Art and Myth of Mexico (taught in English)
NHUM 3153	Latino Popular Culture (taught in English)
NLIT 3715	Twentieth-Century Latin American Narrative (taught in English)
	Total credits	16-17

Notes:

Students who are already beyond the Intermediate Spanish level can, upon the recommendation of the Spanish section coordinator, substitute advanced language courses to meet the requirement for four Spanish language courses.

Students who participate in a Study Abroad program with partner institutions can apply some of their coursework toward requirements for the minor in Hispanic Studies.

*Students must earn a grade of C or higher in all courses taken for the minor.