

Black History Month

Students of the African Diaspora (SOAD) are Giving Back

As an organization, we believe in the power of service. There will be numerous SOAD-led volunteer opportunities throughout the month of February. We'll end the month with a Black History Month celebration on February 24.

For more information, email soad@newschool.edu.

Separate, But Equal Screening with the Director

Thursday, February 16, 6:00 p.m.
66 West 12th Street, room 510

Documentary based on the work of photographer Reverend Henry Clay Anderson and his rare photographs of Black middle class citizens in the segregated south. Followed by a Q&A session with the director Shawn Wilson.

For more information, email OIS@newschool.edu.

African Dance Demonstration and Luncheon

Thursday, February 23, 1:30 p.m.
80 Fifth Avenue, room 802

Join the Office of Intercultural Support for a very special luncheon including a performance of African dance.

For more information, email OIS@newschool.edu.

THE NEW SCHOOL

Healing: The Play

Friday, February 24, 7:00 p.m.
Tishman Aud., 66 West 12th Street

Multimedia and multi-art play that unpacks the uncomfortable realities of an unjust and unequal health care system through the voices of Black women who live with chronic illness. Reservations required at www.charnellcovert.com/The-Healing-Movement.html.

For more information, email wellness@newschool.edu.

Congo Teach-in

Tuesday, February 28, 6:00 p.m.
Wollman Hall, 65 W 11th St., 5th fl.

Hosted by V-Day at The New School, the Congo Teach-in documents V-Day's work in Congo to address the widespread rape and violence against women occurring in the current conflict in the region of Eastern Congo.

For more information, email vday@newschool.edu.

Black Power Mixtape 1967-1975 Screening

Wednesday, February 29, 6:00 p.m.
66 West 12th Street, room 510

Documentary based on footage shot by a group of Swedish journalists documenting the black power movement in the U.S. and audio interviews from leading African-American artists, activists, and scholars.

For more information, email OIS@newschool.edu.