

Michael Isaacson

---

35 Eldorado Pl
Weehawken, NJ 07086
michael.s.isaacson@gmail.com
(609) 417-1274

Education:

- Ph.D. Candidate, Economics
New School for Social Research, New York City, 2013-present
- M.A., Economics      Concentration: Monetary & Fiscal
Howard University, Washington, DC, 2010-2013
- B.S., Economics and Philosophy
University of Mary Washington, Fredericksburg, VA, 2006-2010

Teaching and Research Experience:

- Adjunct Lecturer (2011-2013)
Howard University, Washington, DC
Taught Statistics for Business + Economics (3 semesters), Principles of Macroeconomics (2 semesters), and Principles of Microeconomics (1 semester)
- Research Assistant (2010-2011)
Center for Urban Progress, Washington, DC
Analyzed data and wrote reports on the results of public policy, especially as it pertained to alleviation of poverty and uplift of marginalized communities.

Publications:

- Jobs and the Future of the US Economy: Possibilities and Limits, with Aleksandre Revia, Enrique Lopezlira, and Jassmine Gaines. Review of Black Political Economy, March 2012. 39 (1): 5-28
- Communists and the Fight for Jobs and Revolution, with Rodney D. Green. Review of Black Political Economy, March 2012. 39 (1): 155-173.

Working Papers:

- Measuring Progress Towards Diversity: The US Department of Energy National Laboratories
- An Analysis of Fascist Economic Theory
- The Long-Term Benefit of Lowering the Retirement Age

Awards and Achievements:

- Conference planning
for 2014 “State of Worldly Philosophy at NSSR in 2014” economics conference at The New School for Social Research
- Second prize, Howard University 2011 Graduate Research Symposium
for “Measuring Progress Towards Diversity: The US Department of Energy National Laboratories”
- Conference planning for 2010 “Jobs and the Future of the US Economy: Possibilities and Limits” interdisciplinary conference hosted by Howard University