

PARSONS THE NEW SCHOOL FOR DESIGN

VISITING STUDENT GRADUATE PROGRAMS APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Applicants intending to become visiting students at Parsons can apply to the master's degree programs. Admission as a visiting student is decided upon review of all required application materials and the availability of space in the program. Upon acceptance, students may enroll in our degree program courses for one or two academic terms.

Visiting students must be enrolled in a full-time degree program to apply. Parsons is not responsible for guaranteeing transferability of credits back to the applicant's home institution.

The application deadline for the fall term (September–December) is April 1. The application deadline for the spring term (January–May) is October 1. Late applications may be considered on a rolling basis pending space availability.

Application Requirements

Visiting students are required to follow the same application instructions as all other degree-seeking students. Instead of submitting an online application, please submit the Visiting Student paper application. The application can be obtained by emailing Courtney Malenius in the Office of Graduate Admission at malenius@newschool.edu. Please include "Request of Visiting Student Application" in the subject line. Please review the application instructions for the specific programs online at www.newschool.edu/parsons/apply.

Additional Information

Financial Information: Visiting students are required to pay the Parsons The New School for Design tuition and fees, university health fee, division fee, and dormitory fee (for those who wish to reside on campus). More information on our tuition costs can be found at www.newschool.edu/registrar/tuition-and-fees/. Scholarships are not available.

Submitted Materials: All materials submitted to the Office of Graduate Admission become the property of Parsons.

Accepted Applications: When notified of acceptance, applicants will receive complete instructions for additional procedures regarding housing, tuition and fees, I-20 visas (for non-residents of the United States), and other matters. The decision to admit applicants is always contingent upon their successful completion of any current studies and the receipt of the final transcripts by the Office of Graduate Admission.

Exchange Students

If your current university has an approved exchange program with Parsons, please submit the Exchange Student Application instead. For a complete list of Exchange partner schools, visit www.newschool.edu/parsons/study-abroad-exchange-institutions/.
