

Adam SaNogueira
19 Dongan Pl • New York, NY 10040
ASaNogueira@Bloomberg.net
917.837.3787

OBJECTIVE

To obtain a permanent position in researching, valuing and trading complex instruments which will utilize my applied Bloomberg and financial engineering related skills.

Education

M.S. Global Finance; The New School, New York, NY (expected) Fall 2008
Relative Coursework – Risk Management; Financial Markets and Valuation; Capital Markets: Trading Strategies; Convertible Arbitrage Strategies

Italian Culinary Institute for Foreigners; Piedmont, Italy 2005-2006
A chef training program comprised of academic and practical experience, including apprenticeships at two of Italy's most respected restaurants.

Bachelor of Arts; Eugene Lang College, New York, NY Spring 2005
Concentration in Social and Historical Studies; a multi-disciplined approach to understanding modern world development.

Research

The business model of recent financial innovations including, CDOs, ABCP, SIVs, and their implications for the new issuance. Fall 2007

Using Bloomberg information systems, gather, analyze, and report on data pertaining to hedge funds, company analytics & valuation, and the commodities market. Fall 2007

Undergraduate senior work investigating the macroeconomic relevance of Social Capital Theory in economic development. Spring 2005

Selected Experience

Westville Restaurant; New York, NY Jan 2007- Current
As a chef working with the restaurant since its inception, my responsibilities include, but are not limited to, menu planning and back-of-the-house operations.

Agata E Romeo/Quattro Passi Ristorante; Rome, Italy Aug-Jan 2005
As an apprentice to the Chefs, I was an active member of the kitchen with a responsibility to maintain the utmost degree of professionalism and customer satisfaction.

Skills

Bloomberg, Word, Excel, PowerPoint, Access, Matlab, Mathematica
Languages: Italian (advanced), Spanish (conversational), Hebrew (intro)