Department of Economics Submission Guidelines for Working Papers

Manuscripts must be the original work of the authors, complete, properly cited, free of typos and grammatical errors, and written in a clear style appropriate for an academic paper. Working papers must have a title, list of authors with affiliations, a 100-word abstract, JEL classification codes and a short list of keywords. Number the pages. There is no mandatory format for the main text, but it would be advisable to choose 11pt or 12 pt as the font size with a line space between 1.1 and 1.5.

All cited references must be included in the bibliography, and all bibliography entries must be referred to in the text. The bibliographic entries must be consistently presented in some standard format, and the citations consistent with this format. Further, the bibliographic entries must be as up-to-date as possible. Please double check before submitting your manuscript to make sure your bibliography represents the most current publication status of cited work.

You can submit your manuscript to the Working Paper Series by sending a file electronically to the Editorial Board, econpapers@newschool.edu. All-student-authored papers must be submitted with the consent of a faculty sponsor, who will vouch that the submission conforms to the guidelines above. The Editorial Board will assign a working paper number and create a cover page for your paper. Your manuscript will then be posted on our department's website and added to its RePEc working paper series.

Cover pages will conform to a uniform style determined by the Editorial Board.
