ABOUT PARSONS SCHOOL OF DESIGN

Parsons is a division of The New School, a unique university in New York’s Greenwich Village, famous for its progressive outlook and commitment to the arts. The New School, founded in 1919, pioneered the idea of lifelong university-level education for adult students. It is celebrated for its initiatives in the social sciences, humanities, and public policy research. Since the 1970 merger with Parsons School of Design, The New School has been one of the largest art schools in the United States.

The university has more than 2,200 faculty members, 10,000 degree students, and 13,000 continuing education students. Parsons students have access to all the resources of the university, and administrative services such as registration, housing, health services, records, and accounts are provided by the university.

In addition to Parsons, the other divisions are: The New School for General Studies, The New School for Social Research, Milano The New School for Management and Urban Policy, Eugene Lang College The New School for Liberal Arts, Mannes College The New School for Music, The New School for Drama, and The New School for Jazz and Contemporary Music. For more information, visit www.newschool.edu. The New School provides institutional information on its website at www.newschool.edu, including Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), financial assistance information, fee information, refunds, withdrawal from school, academic policies, disability services, completion/graduation and transfer-out rates, and security policies and crime statistics.
Parsons' Mission

Parsons, founded in 1896, is one of the oldest, largest, and finest professional schools of art and design in the world. It offers bachelor’s degrees in 11 majors, six master’s degree programs, and an associate’s degree program. It is a center for some of the most exciting work being done today in visual arts and design. Parsons is fully accredited by the Commission on Higher Education of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools and the National Association of Schools of Art and Design. Parsons focuses on creating engaged citizens and outstanding designers, scholars, and business leaders through a design-based professional and liberal arts education. Parsons students learn to rise to the challenges of living, working, and creative decision making in a world where human experience is increasingly designed. The school embraces curricular innovation, pioneering uses of technology, collaborative methods, and global perspectives on the future of design.

What is a 21st-Century School of Art and Design?

Design is everywhere in modern society, influencing the choices we make as individuals, informing us as consumers, and engaging us as citizens. As the world becomes increasingly designed and the demand for sustainability increases, the role of the designer is rapidly expanding. A 21st-century school of design creates the social innovators of tomorrow: the tastemakers, architects, advertising and marketing executives, and artists and scholars who shape our world and the way we perceive it. Parsons is at the forefront of contemporary art and design education and is committed to technological innovation, academic rigor, and excellence in every way. Experimentation, collaboration, and social responsibility are built into the Parsons curriculum. Students who come to Parsons make a commitment to social responsibility. We see artists and designers as visionaries, as critical thinkers, as vital members of corporations and communities, and as strategists shaping cultural trends. Professionals in the design community recognize this commitment from Parsons students and graduates, and their opportunities for personal and professional success and satisfaction in the art and design industries are growing every day.
ACADEMIC POLICIES AND GUIDELINES FOR THE SUMMER PROGRAM

Summer programs at Parsons are academically challenging and professionally rewarding for emerging designers. The rigorous curriculum enables students to develop strong analytical and technical skills while they experience the intensity of college-level study in art and design. Students in the Summer Intensive Studies (SIS) program attend class for 30 hours per week and students in the Summer Studies in Constructed Environments (SSCE) program attend class for 35 hours a week. All students should expect to spend up to 3 hours daily working out of class on assigned coursework. Required field trips and on-site visits may be scheduled during class time or at other times, including weekends. Critiques and workshop projects depend on thoughtful student input and discussion. All courses require regular attendance and active participation.

ATTENDANCE AND LATENESS POLICY

Attendance at all class sessions is mandatory. Each class day consists of two sessions, a morning and afternoon. Students enrolled in the three-week Summer Intensive Studies program who miss more than three half sessions may fail the course. Independent work to be completed outside of class is assigned each day and is an important part of the program. Students who do not meet requirements may be asked to leave the program. Students will not be penalized for absences due to religious observance. However, a student still may not miss a significant portion of class time. A student must inform the instructor at the beginning of the term of anticipated absences for religious observance. It is the student’s responsibility, prior to enrolling in the program, to assess the number of religious observances that will arise and their impact on attendance. The student, in consultation with a Parsons SPACE administrator, should determine if summer is the appropriate time to take particular class. Accommodations may include make-up sessions in a different section of the class and/or independent projects.

GRADING AND CREDITS

Faculty members are solely responsible for grading student work done under their instruction. Depending on the character of the class, grades reflect the degree of accomplishment in some or all of the following elements: concept, technical facility, execution, preparation for class, individual progress, class participation, and attendance. Instructors will discuss their grading practices with students during the first class session.

OFFICIAL TRANSCRIPTS

Transcripts issued by the Registrar’s Office carry the signature and seal of The New School. A transcript is confirmation of a student’s permanent record at the university. Students may request that their transcript(s) be mailed to other colleges and institutions by submitting an official request to the Registrar’s Office. This can be done online at my.newschool.edu or by completing the transcript request form which is available at the Registrar’s Office or downloadable from the Registrar’s Office website at www.newschool.edu/registrar/transcripts/. Standard transcript services are free of charge.
CREDITS

Students who successfully complete a three-week Summer Intensive Studies course in New York are eligible to receive three college credits and an academic transcript from The New School. Students who successfully complete the five-week Summer Studies in Constructed Environments course in New York are eligible to receive four college credits and an academic transcript from The New School. Parsons credits are generally accepted at colleges and universities around the world, but visiting students matriculated in degree programs at other schools should consult with their school in advance to confirm that these credits will be accepted for transfer. Summer Intensive and SSCE credits will be counted toward degree requirements for entering or continuing students at Parsons provided they have been pre-approved by the student’s school. Each school has the discretion to decide how transfer credits may be applied within the student’s program of study.

ADD/DROP PERIOD

To add or drop a course, a student must have approval from an administrator in Parsons SPACE. Summer Intensive courses are usually full by the time the program begins, so it is seldom possible to add a course at that time. If a course is open, the student must register before the second day of classes. A student may drop a course before the third day of classes without academic penalty.
WITHDRAWALS AND REFUNDS

STUDENT ADVISING

Parsons Advising provides general academic support and advising to students in Summer Intensive Studies and Summer Studies in Constructed Environments. Parsons advisors, who have extensive knowledge of the many programs within Parsons and the university, are liaisons between students and school personnel. Advisors answer questions about academic programs, academic policies, as well as offices and resources at Parsons and The New School. Students will receive contact information for summer advisors at orientation.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT VISAS

This school is authorized under federal law to enroll non-immigrant alien students. All international students who are enrolled in the Parsons Summer Intensive Studies programs in New York are eligible for F-1 visas that permit them to attend school in the United States. After admission to the SIS or SSCE program, students who are neither United States citizens nor permanent United States residents (green card holders) must apply to The New School for a Form I-20. (Apply at www.newschool.edu/admin/packet/internationalstudents.) This document is a prerequisite to obtaining a United States Government issued F-1 student visa. After receipt of Form I-20 from The New School, a student may apply at a United States consulate in his or her home country for the F-1 visa. The visa must be obtained prior to entry into the United States. Direct questions about the application process for the Form I-20 or the F-1 visa to the office of International Student Services; email iss@newschool.edu or call 212.229.5592.

Because the approval process for student visas can be lengthy, students are required to submit their I-20 (F-1) by April 1 for Summer Intensive Studies: Session I and by April 15 for Summer Intensive Studies: Session II and Summer Studies in Constructed Environments. In order to meet these deadlines, international students must register by March 15, 2016 for Session I and by April 1, 2016 for Session II and Summer Studies in Constructed Environments.
POLICY ON STUDENT WORK

Students are responsible for their own work, art supplies, and other personal property. While in the program, artwork and materials may not be stored in classrooms. Lockers are provided. Students must remove their property when the program ends. Artwork, materials and other personal property left in university facilities by students who have departed at the end of the program, withdrawn, or been dismissed will be discarded. Liability for Student Work on Exhibition Parsons does not assume responsibility or liability for the loss of or damage to work or articles of students that are exhibited in any student or departmental show, demonstration, or program. Participation in such exhibitions assumes that the student has agreed to exhibit work at his or her own risk.

CODE OF CONDUCT

A New School Code of Conduct defines standards of behavior for students, faculty, and staff that will promote an environment conducive to education, where sensitivity, tolerance, and respect are sustained for the benefit of all members of the university community. The Code of Conduct articulates, among other things, university-wide policies on freedom of expression; equal opportunity; academic honesty; confidentiality; respect for facilities and property; campus security; student activities, organizations, and publications; and alcohol, illegal drugs, and smoking. The Code of Conduct also establishes the procedures used by the university to evaluate and respond to alleged infractions by students. The full text of the Code of Conduct is available on the Student Services page at www.newschool.edu. Parsons affirms its commitment to the standards of behavior defined in the New School Code of Conduct, to the underlying educational purpose of those standards, and to the guidelines and procedures specified for the evaluation of alleged infractions by its students.
ACADEMIC INTEGRITY AND HONESTY POLICY

Academic honesty, the responsibility of every member of an academic community to claim authorship of his or her own work and only for that work and to acknowledge the contributions of others accurately and completely, is fundamental to the integrity of intellectual debate and creative and academic pursuits. All members of the university community are expected to conduct themselves in accord with the standards of academic honesty. Students are responsible for knowing and making use of proper procedures for writing papers, presenting and performing their work, taking examinations, and doing research. Instructors are equally responsible for informing students of their policies with respect to the limits within which students may collaborate with or seek help from others on specific assignments. Instructors are expected to educate students about the legal and ethical restrictions placed upon creative work and about the consequences of dishonesty in the professional world. At Parsons, all students are required to sign an Academic Integrity Statement declaring that they understand and agree to comply with this policy.

(From the University Policies Governing Student Conduct) “Academic honesty includes accurate use of quotations, as well as appropriate and explicit citation of sources in instances of paraphrasing and describing ideas, or reporting on research findings or any aspect of the work of others (including that of instructors and other students). The standards of academic honesty and citation of sources apply to all forms of academic work (examinations, essay theses, dissertations, computer work, art and design work, oral presentations, and other projects). The standards also include responsibility for meeting the requirements of particular courses of study.

The New School recognizes that the different nature of work across the divisions of the university may entail different procedures for citing sources and referring to the work of others. Particular academic procedures, however, are based in universal principles valid in all divisions of The New School and institutions of higher education in general.”

Academic dishonesty includes but is not limited to: cheating on examinations, either by copying another student’s work or by utilizing unauthorized materials any act of plagiarism, that is, the fraudulent presentation of the written, oral, or visual work of others as original theft of another student’s work purchase of another student’s work submitting the same work for more than one course destruction or defacement of the work of others aiding or abetting any act of dishonesty any attempt to gain academic advantage by presenting misleading information, making deceptive statements, or falsifying documents.
GUIDELINES FOR STUDIO ASSIGNMENTS

Work from other visual sources may be imitated or incorporated into studio work if the fact of imitation or incorporation and the identity of the original sources are properly acknowledged. There must be no intent to deceive; the work must make clear that it emulates or comments on specific sources. Referring to a style or concept in otherwise original work does not constitute plagiarism. The originality of studio work that presents itself as “in the manner of” or as playing with “variations on” a particular source should be evaluated by the individual faculty member in the context of a critique.

Incorporating ready-made materials into studio work as in a collage, synthesized photograph, or paste-up is not plagiarism in the educational context. In the commercial world, however, such appropriation is prohibited by copyright laws and may result in legal consequences.

Any violation of the Academic Integrity and Honesty Policy is a matter for disciplinary action. Penalties may include failing the course and/or dismissal from school.

RESIDUAL AUTHORITY OF THE DEAN

Nothing in this student handbook will be deemed to contravene or limit the authority of the dean to promulgate and enforce additional or modified rules and regulations governing student conduct at Parsons.

EMERGENCIES

To check on the status of the school in case of emergencies (weather related or other), please call 212.229.7008 or go to my.newschool.edu. Campus Security is available 24 hours a day at 212.229.7001. Parsons strongly encourages students to review personal and family emergency procedures before arrival. Parents/guardians of minor students should discuss details of how they wish their child to respond in case of an emergency.

REQUISITE FORMS

The program requires all Summer Intensive Studies and Summer Studies in Constructed Environments students to complete a requisite form before classes begin. Students who have not submitted forms online by the start of the program will not be permitted to participate. We urge students to complete the forms as soon as they receive this guidebook. Forms may be updated later, if necessary. All students enrolled in the Summer Intensive Studies program complete forms online at https://webform.newschool.edu/ParsonsSPACE/52731227222
NEW YORK IN THE SUMMER

With rich cultural resources and international sophistication, New York City is a vibrant environment that has inspired and challenged artists and designers throughout its history. The entire city is a living example of the evolving effect that art and design have upon modern society. To walk the streets of Manhattan is to breathe creativity, to experience the vitality of diverse expression, and to know what it feels like when design and life meet face-to-face.

To Parsons faculty members, the city is an extension of the classroom which they incorporate into the fabric of the curriculum. The city is home to more than 80 museums, such as the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Cooper-Hewitt National Design Museum, and the Museum of Modern Art. Parsons faculty teach to the architecture of the city and the language of its commercial, public, and private communications.

New York galleries and studios, e-commerce, technology start-ups, and design houses recognize Parsons’ role as the educator of the artists and designers of tomorrow. Many members of these organizations are also members of Parsons faculty—they develop curricula, create internships for students, and employ Parsons students after they graduate. At Parsons, students learn to be intrepid explorers of this complex and rewarding city. As the next generation of artists and designers, they are profoundly affected by the city, seek inspiration from it, and ultimately, contribute to the dialogue that New York City engages in with its citizens every day.
STUDENT LIFE AND NYC

The Parsons main campus is located in Greenwich Village, an historic residential neighborhood with a unique style and atmosphere. The Village is home to art studios and galleries, shops and restaurants and theaters and nightclubs. Thousands of students, artists, musicians, and writers live here. It has spawned countless cultural movements and inspired some of America’s most influential thinkers for more than 100 years.

Sidewalks in the Village are thronged with tourists, students, and residents. Students and faculty can meet and socialize in the many restaurants and cafés near Parsons, while cinemas, theaters, and musical venues provide students with welcome breaks from their studies. Nearby Union Square Park is a great place for relaxing, people watching, and picking up fresh produce from vendors at the farmers’ market. The Hudson River Park offers bicycling, jogging, and other recreational facilities.

Residence halls are within walking distance of everything the Village has to offer and to New York City public transportation. The Sheila C. Johnson Design Center at Fifth Avenue and 13th Street houses studios, offices, galleries, and computer labs. The Parsons SPACE office is located in room 200.
THE PARSONS FACULTY

There is no better resource than Parsons for design talent and industry success. Parsons provides its students with the unique advantage of being taught by New York’s successful, working artists and designers. Faculty members and visiting critics, many principals in their own design firms, hold key positions in the art and design community, and frequently have their work published, produced, or exhibited. Parsons’ strong ties to industry bring numerous guest lecturers and critics into forums and classrooms.

NEW YORK ORIENTATION

Students must attend orientation where they will receive essential information about the program including Parsons’ academic expectations and policies. Students will also learn about daily life in New York City.

Please note: Residents are responsible for their guests. Where applicable, violation of these guidelines/policies by the guest will result in the removal of the resident from the Residence Hall and program of study.

REMOVAL FROM THE RESIDENCE HALL (WITHOUT REFUND) WILL OCCUR IF A STUDENT PARTICIPATES IN ANY OF THE FOLLOWING OFFENSES:

NEW YORK CITY TRANSPORTATION

Traveling from Airports to Residence Halls
Students are responsible for arriving at the residence halls during check-in. LaGuardia (LGA), Kennedy (JFK), and Newark Liberty (EWR) airports are the closest to the city. There are taxi stands with authorized dispatchers and bus stops outside all airport terminals. Follow the signs marked “Ground Transportation.” Information about the airports and related services is available at the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey website at www.panynj.gov.

Taxis
Cabs are the fastest and most convenient way to travel to the residence halls. They are, however, the most expensive option, costing $55 plus tip and tolls from Kennedy; $55 plus tip from Newark; and $40 plus tip from LaGuardia. Students going to Loeb Hall should instruct the cab driver to take them to Third Avenue and 12th Street. Students assigned to the Stuyvesant Residence should ask to be taken to 15th Street between First and Second Avenues. Students staying at the 13th Street Residence should ask to be brought to 13th Street between Sixth and Seventh Avenues.

Airport Shuttles
A less expensive travel option, costing between $10 and $15, is to catch one of the many shuttle buses to Grand Central Station or Port Authority Bus Terminal. Then take a cab to the residence hall. One company that provides shuttle bus and limousine service is New York Airport Service, phone 718.875.8200. Information about this and similar companies is listed on www.panynj.gov.

Public Transportation
Public bus and subway service, available at LaGuardia, Kennedy, and Newark airports, provide the least expensive transportation, costing as little as $2.25 one way. Students arriving at Kennedy can catch the Air Train from the terminal for $5 and transfer to the subway. Students arriving at LaGuardia can take the M60 or Q33 bus and connect to subway into Manhattan. Students arriving at Newark can take the New Jersey Transit Air Train for $15 to New York Penn Station. These trips can take over an hour and are only recommended for experienced travelers. Find details about public transportation to and from airports at www.panynj.gov.

Arriving by Train
Grand Central and Pennsylvania Stations are the two train stations servicing New York City. There are city bus and subway connections from these locations to Parsons. Travelers who are unfamiliar with public transportation in New York City, or who are carrying heavy luggage, may prefer to take a taxicab. Available at designated cabstands at the street level, a cab will cost approximately $15.

Arriving by Bus
The New York Port Authority bus terminal, at 41st Street and Eighth Avenue, has city bus and subway connections to Parsons. Newcomers to New York City might be more comfortable taking a taxicab, which will cost approximately $15.

Arriving by Car
Students traveling by car to New York City should contact a local automobile association or visit Google Maps to determine the best route. We advise drivers to avoid arriving during rush hour on weekdays, 7:00–9:00 a.m. and 4:00–6:00 p.m. when there is significant traffic congestion. Street parking is difficult in the city. There are a number of parking garages in the two-block area surrounding Parsons.

Transportation Around the City
Getting around New York City via public transportation is inexpensive and easy. Although the subway and bus systems may seem daunting at first, students learn to navigate the city with confidence within a few days. Subway stations and bus stops are located within one to two blocks of uptown and downtown campus buildings. Using public transportation, students can travel nearly anywhere in the five boroughs.

Subways and buses operate on the MetroCard system, a declining-balance card that riders swipe at turnstiles. Currently, the fare is $2.50 per ride. A 30-day unlimited MetroCard is available for $112. With this card, students can use all buses and subways as needed. For detailed fare and schedule information, visit the Metropolitan Transportation Authority’s official website: www.mta.info.

Additional Travelers’ Information

BUILDING HOURS AND POLICIES

Summer building hours will be distributed at orientation. Hours are also posted on the university website at www.newschool.edu. Students are expected to respect the rights and privileges of other students, faculty, and staff. When using university facilities, students must be respectful of school property, including walls, furnishings, equipment, computers, and books. Students who behave otherwise will be held accountable. The policy on the use of university facilities and property is contained in the New School Code of Conduct, which appears in full on the Student Services page of The New School website.

STUDENT ID CARD

All summer students receive a New School photo ID valid for the duration of the program which allows them to enter and use university facilities including computer labs, classroom facilities, libraries, cafeterias, and residence halls. The card, which must be shown to the security guards upon request, must be accessible whenever a student is at school. Students may choose to submit their photo early to Campus Card Service or they can have their photo taken on campus. All cards will be issued during the first days of the program.

FINAL EXHIBITION OF STUDENT WORK

On the final afternoon of each summer program, Parsons hosts a festive open studio exhibition to showcase the extraordinary body of work produced during the program. Be sure to invite your family and friends so they may attend. See the calendar on page 3 for dates.
EXTRACURRICULAR, PORTFOLIO, AND CAREER EVENTS

Parsons organizes extracurricular events on weekday evenings and weekends to provide opportunities for students to get acquainted with each other, discover the delights of New York City, and explore options for future study and careers in art and design. Some activities planned by the summer programs office are purely for entertainment, while others have a more professional and academic focus, particularly the information sessions provided by Parsons admission counselors and faculty that highlight a variety of design industries. A calendar of the optional extracurricular events will be provided to students at orientation on the first morning of the program.

DINING OPTIONS

Some residence hall suites are equipped with kitchen facilities. Find specifics about each residence hall at www.newschool.edu/studentaffairs/housing, email summer-housing@newschool.edu, or call 212.229.5459 ext. 3610. Students should expect to spend approximately $35 per day on meals and miscellaneous expenses. These figures represent average costs. Actual expenses will vary depending on the choices of the student. There are many reasonably-priced restaurants, diners, delis, markets, and cafés near the Parsons academic buildings and residence halls. Many of these locations offer student discounts with a valid New School ID card.

MONEY

All students should have a bank cash card for automated teller machines (ATMs). If you bank at a small bank or credit union, consult with your home banking institution to confirm the availability of cash funds at ATMs in New York. Traveler’s checks are not widely accepted in New York City and are therefore not recommended. Bring a major credit card for emergencies. Parsons/New School does not offer check-cashing services. Banks in New York City will not cash money orders unless one has an account with the institution. Out-of-town checks deposited in a local account may take several days to become available. Out-of-town checks or temporary checks will not be accepted as payment at most stores and other services. In cases where checks are valid for payment, a credit card is usually required for identification. Wired money transfers from home accounts to a New York account generally provide cash within 48 hours.
ART SUPPLIES

While students should bring the materials that they already own to cut down on cost, it is not necessary to bring bulky supplies to New York. There will be enough time to purchase supplies on the first day of class in New York. Please be aware that sharp objects may be removed from carry-on baggage at the airport security check; students should contact their airline to check current policies. Supply lists for each class will be emailed to students two weeks before the start of the program. Art supplies are available at several locations in the neighborhood. Local art supply stores offer either built-in discounts or discounts with a New School ID card.

NEW YORK CITY RESOURCES

Student discounts (with valid New School ID) are offered by many stores and cultural institutions around the city. Many museums, for example, ask patrons to pay a “suggested donation,” which means that students may pay as little as a dollar or two for admission. There are many performance spaces, such as the Brooklyn Academy of Music, that offer student rush tickets (usually two hours prior to performance), enabling students to attend performances at greatly reduced prices.

BOOK STORES

SIS and SSCE faculty will be in contact with the students approximately 1-2 weeks prior to the start of the program to inform the students on what textbooks required for their class. There are several bookstores located within a few blocks from campus. The New School bookstore is now located at Barnes & Noble in Union Square- 33 East 17th Street between Park Avenue and Broadway. CAREERS IN ART AND DESIGN

Parsons is committed to helping students develop the skills, confidence, and industry contacts to succeed in the evolving marketplace. Parsons graduates are in high demand and many establish impressive careers, ranging from freelance to executive positions at some of the world’s largest and most innovative corporations.

Architects as well as Interior and Lighting designers may enter their careers directly; they may also work in landscape design or urban studies. Parsons’ unique education also enables students to pursue careers in set and exhibition design.

Communication designers enjoy careers in advertising, publishing, editorial design, Web design, packaging, corporate design, branding, film, television, and video.

Design and Management graduates have entered careers in marketing, advertising, public relations, brand strategy, retail buying, and account management. Parsons graduates also establish their own businesses.

Design and Technology graduates, often specializing in the digital architecture of Web and media design, pursue careers in film and television, graphic design, advertising, animation, game design, product development, and fine arts.

Fashion designers can work for apparel manufacturers, for established designers, or may choose to start clothing lines of their own. They may also work as costume designers.

Fine Arts graduates may become professional artists, work at galleries and major art institutions, write articles, and curate exhibitions. Many continue to make and exhibit their work. Some go on to an MFA program, which prepares them to teach at any level.

Illustrators create drawings and cartoons for newspapers and magazines. They draw comics and graphic novels, illustrate children’s books, design book covers, and create natural science and medical illustrations. They work in animation for television, movies, and the Web.

Integrated Design Curriculum graduates are analytical problem solvers with deep knowledge of design; they work in urban planning and with sociologists, architects, and interior designers to plan living and work spaces. Many establish their own firms or work as consultants.

Product designers create and shape a variety of products including household goods and furniture, as well as equipment for home and industry. Product designers often work for manufacturers; others join or establish product design firms.

Photography graduates may be employed by magazines, newspapers, and advertising firms. Many work as commercial and fine artists, exhibiting their photos in galleries and museums, while producing work for publication. Other opportunities exist in Web, television, and film design as storyboard artists and directors.
